REPORT OF THE SCHOOLS.

One cannot take an inventory of the returns for the money invested in schools as one can of investments in other kinds of business. The returns are as real but not of a nature for actual stock-taking. The town appropriates annually, a certain amount of money for the use of the children and young people, this money to be transmuted into brain and soul power. Citizens, parents, teachers and pupils help or hinder the results.

During the last year, the schools, taken as a whole, have been much more difficult of management in the line of proper control than for a long time previous. This has come, in part, from a changing population, and, in part, from the fact that a considerable number of our children are at an age where great wisdom is needed for proper guidance and control. It should always be remembered that the teacher has a very complex problem, for she has to deal not only with the individual child, but with the child 28 with the children of twenty or more families. good of the individual and the good of the whole, must every moment be held in mind. In one school, for on term, a number of children from a lumber camp added much to an already difficult problem. Although it has been harder for the teachers than formerly, yet with this one exception we have had orderly schools and excellent work has been done.

FOUNDATIONS.

"What are you studying John?" "Fundamentals," was the answer. It was a long word but it was the right work.

It covers the whole course of study below the High school. The work of these lower schools is the getting in of foundations, foundations that include habits and tendencies. Foundations that are so broad and thorough and fine that any superstructure may be erected thereon according to individual choice. The looking forward to the privileges of the High school is a stimulus to the pupils of the ungraded rural schools, but too much hurry to enter is becoming a menace to proper foundations. Special preparation for taking an entrance test ought never to be needful. Education is a growth, a process of evolution. One should be able to pass as naturally from one grade of school to a higher as from the First to the Second reader. If one enters the High school without proper foundations, the whole course of the four years is hard, unsatisfactory and to a considerable degree unprofitable.

We have to do our own growing, mental as well as physical; it is one of the things that no person can do for another. The stalwart fellow of six feet four had to do every inch of it for himself. No child can be stretched mentally any more than he can be stretched physically, therefore, the ideal teacher is the teacher who can so rouse, encourage and enthuse the child that it will be ambitious to depend upon itself, and will, under guidance, do patient, persevering, faithful work.

MARY C. BERRY, For the Board of Education.

SIXTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

PELHAM FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

This report of the year's work of the Free Public Library must necessarily be brief as there is very little to be said except that the library is quietly but surely and successfully fulfilling the purpose for which it was founded. It has become a boom, the advantages of which would be surely missed, were the town's people suddenly called upon to forego them.

The library continues to be well patronized by the reading public.

About 125 new books have been purchased and will be ready for circulation before this report is published.

We take this occassion to thank those who have generously helped the library by donations of money, books, etc. A fine model of a full rigged ship has been presented to the library by Miss Edith Spear for her mother the late Mrs. Rebecca Spear.

Financially, as may be seen by the treasurer's report, the condition of the library is very satisfactory, and for this reason the trustees suggest that the amount of money raised by the town for the support of the library be reduced this year to one hundred dollars.

As time passes it becomes more and more difficult to select good books for the library, and we again urge those who read books from the library to help us out in the selection of books by passing in lists of those which may chance to come to their attention and which they think might be desirable for the library.

We wish to acknowledge our appreciation of the efficient services of the librarian and express our hope that she may continue to serve the library for the coming year.

FRANK M. WOODBURY, SHERMAN HOBBS, CHARLES W. HOBBS.
